Today's Charm Tip

PRESIDENT BEGINS Beautiful Part of Georgia's $5,000,000 Hunting Industry Goes Into Swift Action Today

Georgia's quail season opens today. And an abundance of birds is reported. Thousands of hunters will be in the field from the hills of Habersham to the marshes of Glynn. Here is shown a well-trained group of dogs—one of sportdom's most rhythmic and picturesque scenes. Hunting is a $5,000,000 industry in Georgia.

> Speaking before the opening session of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare, Dr. Graham said failure to "provide federal aid now for elementary and secondary schools is a failure of the American system to follow through for the most basic of our institutions."

> Dr. Graham's address was the highlight of today's meetings of the conference, called as "the south's answer" to the government survey's report that this section was the nation's foremost economic problem.

The nation's first lady, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, will speak Tuesday night and Alabama's Hugo L. Black, associate justice of the supreme court, will speak Wednesday night.

Dr. Graham said southeastern farm people with 4,250,000 children received only 2 per cent of the national income in 1930, while northeastern non - farm people with twice as many children received 21 times as much income.

"A higher tax rate is required to provide the $30 per child in three states than is required to provide the $120 per child in the three states of highest school income," he said.

GEORGIANS PLAN GAY SOCIAL DAYS

Concert by University of Georgia Glee Club and Series of Dances Are Included on Program.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 .- The Georgia State Society of Washington and vicinity with a mem-bership of nearly 400, has just announced a social program for the 1938-39 season which will include a concert on December 3 by the University of Georgia Glee Club, and a series of dances.

Organized in 1925 by Moultrie Hill, of Atlanta, the society has been an active force for 13 years in keeping Georgia's sons and daughters in the capital in touch with one another.

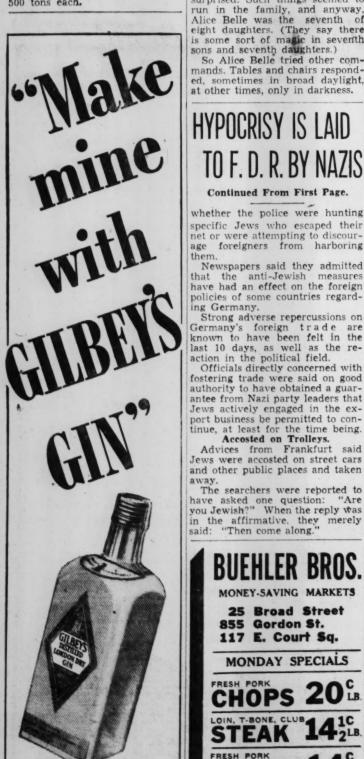

Banner Event. Mrs. James W. Thurston, financial secretary, who has been with the society since its organization, is working like a beaver to make the concert of the University of Georgia Glee Club a banner event. The director of the club, Hugh Hodgson, she said, is one of the best known pianists and composers of the south, and Miss Minnie Hecker, soloist, a noted coloraturist. Other officers of the glee club are David Barrow, president, and Louis T. Griffith, business

As president of the society, Representative B. Frank Whelchel, one of the younger members of the state's house group, has steppedup the social tempo of the or-ganization considerably since he took office last year. Although suffering from a fractured leg late in 1937, sustained in an automo-bile accident near his home city bile accident near his home city of Gainesville, Judge Whelchel continued to take a strong per-sonal interest in the society.

Other officers are Peter S. Twitty, of Dublin, first vice president; Mrs. Julia O. Almand, Atlanta, second vice president; Miss Patricia Collins, Savannah, third vice president; Edmund H. Worthy, Carrollton, fourth vice president; Lacey W. Himely, Savansecretary; Miss Leon Barber, Milledgeville, treasurer, and Miss Annie Gray White, Macon, publicity chairman.

While definite arrangements have not yet been completed, of-ficers of the society now are planning to have some 45 girls from the Georgia State College for Women, Milledgeville, as their guests on the night of March 18 when the last of the winter dances will be held.

Who is this man who plays the strategic role in this resurrected middle ages? Hugh R. Wilson, ambassador to Germany becomes the Man of the Week

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 .-(UP)-President Roosevelt will have the benefit of reports from a diplomat of 27 years' experience when he discusses the German situation with Hugh Robert Wilson, American ambassador to the third Reich. Wilson, recalled to discuss Hitler's newest anti-Jewish program, which elicited a personal protest from Mr. Roosevelt, is regarded as one of the most competent statesmen this nation has produced in recent years. The present envoy to Germany was born to wealth. His father was one of the leading spirits in establishment of the Wilson Brothers Haberdashery Company in Chicago, a firm which still flourishes. But business did not intrigue young Wilson, despite the insistence of his uncle, whom the future diplomat describes as a "slave to business.'

Even as a boy, Wilson decided to be a diplomat. The path was clear, with more than a comfortable income assured for life. He took his bachelor's at Yale in 1906 and later studied political science at the Sorbonne.

With his ability as a linguist and expertness in political science as assets, Wilson applied to the State Department for a job. He started right at the bottom of the ladder, as secretary to the American minister to Lisbon, Portugal, 1911. A year earlier, he had married Katherine Bogle, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Successively Wilson became secretary to the legation at Guatemala and in legations or embassies at Guatemala, Buenos Aires, Berlin and Vienna, Tokyo and Berne, Switzerland. From 1924 to 1927 he was chief of the division of current information at the State Department.

the official party is a problem to which protocol specialists haven't yet found the answer. The trouble is that the White House simply isn't large enough to accommodate more than a few persons in addition to their royal highnesses.

Advices from London report that Queen Elizabeth must have with her a minimum of three maids, one to pack, one to care for her clothes and one to dress her. King George VI will doubt-valets. Then, there must be three footmen each, to work in eight-hour shifts standing outside the doors of their royal majesties in their ond floor of the White House.

Furthermore, each lady in the official party must have at least one maid, and each gentleman must have at least one valet. That won't present such a problem at the White House, as the small number of guest bedrooms at the White House will probably limit the house guests to two or three of the official party.

At Least 40 in Party.

It is not yet known how many ladies and gentlemen of rank will accompany the King and Queen, but there are certain to be ladiesin-waiting, knights of this and that, military and naval aides, secretaries and other attaches.

At least 40 will be in the party, it was indicated.

The tale is still told here of a servant problem which arose when a South American President visited Washington years ago. Robert E. ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 21, 1938.

NOT JEWS ALONE.

That the refugee problem created by Germany through Nazi persecution is not strictly a Jewish problem is clearly shown in a recent report of the Foreign Policy Association. The report was prepared for the association by David Popper and brings to light facts and figures which are apt to be overlooked by many persons who are under the impression that Hitlerism aims only to destroy the Jews. The figures show beyond doubt that Nazi barbarism extends to any and all persons who either dislike or disagree with policies and practices of a gangster government. The are thus a forceful reminder that liberty, freedom and justice cannot exist at all unless they exist for Popper's report states that "the number of Christian non-Aryans is believed to equal or surpass the total of actual or potential Jewish refugees." He estimates the total number at 660,816, which includes 198,000 Jews in "old Germany and 102,300 in former Austria, 285,516 "non-Arvans" and 75,000 Roman Catholics.

To many persons in the United States these estimates are apt to be surprising. For it is readily apparent that Christians as well as Jews stand to feel the fury of Nazi terror, or have felt it already. It makes the refugee problem just that much more acute and more in need of solving.

As for the solution, Popper's report states that while there are great technical obstacles to be overcome, a "real determination" on the part of nations who feel no urge to slip into the morass of the dark ages can overcome the difficulties. The main problem is financial, the Popper report continues, yet if this can be solved, the political obstacles to migration "will not prove insuperable." The Popper report concludes with the thought that "without real determination to assist refugees, hopes for an integral solution must remain dim."

That every civilized nation will exert the kind of determination recommended is not only imperative, but a challenge that must be met. If not, then many martyrs have died in vain.

FLOOD CONTROL OR POWER PLANTS?

A majority of the people have always taken it for granted that hydroelectric power development and flood control must go hand in hand, in fact, must be one and the same thing. because both seemingly call for the building of dams, lakes and spillways. But the recent disastrous floods in New England, and the earlier floods in Texas along the Colorado river, have created a suspicion that the two phases of water development are not necessarily the same.

The question as to whether one is for or against further development of the nation's water resources for the purpose of generating power has nothing to do with this discussion. A technical question is involved which calls for considerable elucidation before the people appropriate additional funds or permit completion of some of the current projects.

It is understood that a hydroelectric plant requires a full head of water behind the dam. a full lake to keep the wheels turning; but that a flood water reservoir, built to hold the overflow from the surrounding country in times of emergency, must be sufficiently empty to impound the excess water, depending upon the intensity of the flood.

The Buchanan dam, now under construction on the lower Colorado river and managed by a small-time TVA, showed no promise of fullfilling the purpose for which it was ostensibly planned, flood control. When the heavy rains came which produced the flood, the lake behind the dam was nearly full. There was not sufficient unutilized capacity to retard the freshets and the flood water rushed down the valley, bringing death and destruction with it. Hundreds of families were left homeless. thousands of acres of farm lands inundated. crops swept away and a great deal of misery and suffering followed. The actual damage to property has been estimated at between $5,000,-000 and $10,000,000. It was simply another of the many flood disasters which the people of the United States have come to look upon as annual events; events, however, which pale into numerical insignificance when compared to the annual promises to abate this waste of life and

If many of the recently constructed government reservoirs are to be kept filled to capacity for the purpose of generating electric power, obviously their usefulness as flood control projects will be correspondingly impaired.

What other view logically can be taken in the light of the recent happening in Texas? Furthermore, there is the wonder why, after all the political talk of flood dangers, after the vast amounts of money which have been appropriated and ostensibly spent to relieve them, flood disaster continues to fall upon the country year after year, in the same danger zones, with such destructive force? Has the muchtalked-of program failed in its primary purpose? Or was flood control, after all, not the first consideration.

LINDY'S STAR WANES.

If the "Lone Eagle," Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, moves to Berlin now, he will lose much of the luke-warm popularity and respect he has remaining in the land he left behind. Yet both the Associated Press and the New York Times report that reliable resources say Mrs. Lindbergh is looking for an apartment in Berlin.

Since that historic day in 1927 when "Lindy" made his trans-Atlantic flight, he has occupied a unique position in history. The world loved him then. Later the world suffered with him when his first-born was kidnaped and murdered.

He moved to England. The decision of the Lindberghs to leave America brought general lamentations throughout this nation. But strangely there have been no public moves to get the famous flyer back. The truth is, many citizens have hoped he will stay out of this country and out of public affairs.

Lately, news dispatches from abroad prove he is not just an onlooker. The Russian-Lady Astor affair left a bad taste in the mouths of most people. The recent news that Lindy had been decorated with the Service Cross of the Order of the German Eagle with Star-the second highest honor Germany can give to a hero -did not make his popularity rise in this country, or in any of those opposing the dictator-

Also, news that he is friendly with Adolf Hitler, Field Marshal Herman Goering and other high ranking Nazi officials is not liable to cause any noticeable cheering in America. particularly in view of the Jewish situation. As the correspondents have pointed out so clearly, if Mrs. Lindbergh gets an apartment in Berlin now, it will be one in which Jews have resided ... and have had to vacate on account of Nazi oppression.

So today, while Lindy's German "friends" tax a Jewish minority's physical and financial resources by persecutions and mob terror, the world is asking him if he will again take the most unpopular path-and move to the center of the disturbance. It would be ironic, indeed, if a former hero of America, who left this country ostensibly to rear his children in peace, should move to a land where the ideals of his native land are being ruthlessly condemned, and where there can be no peace.

DISFRANCHISED.

Millions of Americans went to the polls in the recent general election and exercised a sacred right-their franchise. But in Washington, capital of the nation and seat of the government, ballot boxes were draped in blackto remind the rest of the country that Washingtonians cannot vote. Under present laws, citizens of the District of Columbia are denied their right of franchise. It seems ironic, this fact, considering that in Washington laws are made and the business of the government is carried on.

Do citizens of the District want their vote? The answer is a vigorous affirmative. This was evidenced only this year, when in April a straw vote was held. Washingtonians,' in that straw election, placed themselves on record 13 to one for the right to vote for president and members of congress, and eight to one for the right to vote for officials of their local government, who are now appointed by the President.

Surely this desire to vote is not unreasonable. Various groups in Washington have hammered long and hard-but so far fruitlesslyto have present laws changed. This year the District League of Women Voters distributed literature on general election day in support of the campaign for suffrage in the District of

ROBOTS ON THE FARM

(From The Dallas Morning News.) To refer to the farmer as a "horny-handed son of toil" is not as accurate as in earlier days. Last year about 22,000 mechanical corn pickers were in operation. This season the number is estimated at 65,000. As each machine does the work of three men, it is easy to see how ployment is being cut down. One agricultural expert predicts that within five years harvesting corn by hand will be as outmoded as cradling

When farmers can have their corn harvested with a mechanical picker at 2.3 cents a bushel, compared with 4.5 cents for hand labor, they naturally will prefer the machne. But unless other industries can absorb the farm hands thus thrown out of work, city taxpayers may have to dig a little deeper into their pockets for relief funds. Perhaps this is one way of redistributing wealth between town and country, but it is likely to make serious readjustments necessary. New fields, such as radio and air-conditoning, have taken up part of the slack; but often those whose work is taken over by machines have difficulty in adjusting themselves to new jobs-if indeed they can find them. For every laborsaving device there is a new problem of unem-

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

THE ROLE OF CHANCE WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 .- The career of Homer Stille Cummings is the perfect text for a moral essay on the role of chance in public affairs. As Franklin Delano Roosevelt's attorney general, Cummings has been a shaper of great events.

It was he, for example, who procured the President his most dangerous enemy, Senator Burton E. Wheeler, of Montana. The man Wheeler hates worst in the world is Montana's former national committeeman, the prosperous lawyer-lobbyist, J. Bruce Kremer. Cummings, on the other hand, is not only a close Kremer crony; he was actually a guest in the lawyer-lobbyist's house durmuch of his first year in office. And when Wheeler, one of the for-Roosevelt-before-Chicago men, presented his patronage demands at the Justice Department, Cummings passed over the Wheeler nominees in favor of members of Kremer's Montana or-

Out of Wheeler's rage with Cummings grew a mood, and that mood eventually made Wheeler the leader of the court plan opposition. Then it was Homer Cummings who invented the court plan itself, sold it to the President, and prepared its somewhat devious presentation. It was he who advised the President on the nomination of Justice Hugo L. Black. It was he who managed the legal division of the government through the most difficult

CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS Yet, if Senator Tom Walsh had not died on his honeymoon, Homer Cummings would probably be high commissioner of the Philippines at this very instant. Instead of the careful diary of national events, which he hopes some day will earn him a niche in history's statuary gallery, he would have nothing to show but a set of dull pro-consular memoirs.

Moreover, if Bryan's alloyed silver tongue had not persuaded him into the Democratic party, he might never have been heard of He is a canny, amiable, experienced old fellow, but his abilities have never been extraordinary. Because he was a Demo-crat in Connecticut at a time when the status of a Connecticut Democrat resembled that of a South Carolina Republican, he rose to a place of power in the state organization. From that vantage point, he was able to reach for larger honors. Unlike most other Connecticut Democrats, he was smart enough to pick when Jim Farley stopped by on his shopping trip for 1932 delegates. And so he was rewarded with the Philippines. Then, because he happened to be in Washington when Walsh died, he was hustled into the suddenly vacant job. He was supposed to resign at once. But somehow he hung on for six years. He is leaving now because he really does want to return to private practice. He is likely to do pretty handsomely, for a retired attorney general needs no runners to bring in clients in trouble with the government.

ENDURABLE IMPERFECTION As attorney general, his labors have been more zealous than technically expert. He is supposed to have scribbled his first opinion on a pad of foolscap at the capitol, President was being inaugurated. But its argument, that an unrepealed clause in the wartime national defense act authorized the President to close the banks, had been dug up on an advance trip to Washington by Rexford Guy Tugwell.

His greatest departmental enthusiasms were law enforcement and prison reform. Credit must be given his organization for not breaking down completely under the barrage of constitutional cases brought against the government. Yet the cases themselves were often ineptly defended. Had the law work been in the hands of a man like Dean G. Acheson (who may now become solicitor general, if Bob Jackson steps into Cummings' shoes), the New Deal's unhappy conflicts with the courts might have been far more infrequent.

For all his troubles, however, Homer Cummings liked the thought of his role in history. He liked the pomp of official place. He liked making little jokes on his subordinates, as when he teased Thurman Arnold for two hours, telling him, "Now, young man, this is a difficult matter," before he would hand him the order for his movie industry anti-trust suit. And, with his little jokes and his quite human pleasures, Homer Cummings was a likeable figure himself. He scarcely proved the efficiency of the Democratic process, but he was one of its more endurable imperfections.

way more interesting. The names on the masthead are two: Jared I. Whitaker, proprietor, and John H. Steele, editor. In-creased subscription and adverto "the present condition of the country." The subscription rate was $2 for one month and ranged from "Sale of Land or Negroes, per square, .50 cents," to "For man advertising his wife (in advance) $10.00." A "square" is described as 10 lines.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Don't Need NEW YORK, Nov. Telling pieces are writter than mine of the 8th inst., regarding the flying services and the exclusiveness of the officers' corps of the navy they probably will be written by the same hand. Impatient of compromise and half-measures, when I'm bad I am lousy, and I didn't need telling I had fallen on my face, although several naval officers have been good enough to say so, in case you don't know. I think it was as bad in its flippancy, which imparted an unintentional tone of rudeness and seeming contempt for the officers' corps, as in the lack of technical information about flying skill, equipment and organization. This ack was total but for the sort of reading that any layman puts his eye to in casual browsing. And, although I began by saying that I seemed to be at my best when writing of things which I knew nothing about and therefore should be pretty good that day, it was effrontery to sound off.

So I take my wigging without

Hal Gregory came by "Red" Willis' chair where I was getting a haircut the other night to tell about the fellow that was bragging about his big hog, and when the first cool snap came along he went out early one morning to kill the monster. He struck the hog in the head with an ax and knocked him through a knot hole in the pen. He looked over the fence and saw a cat coming toward the hog and dashed in the house to get his gun to shoot the cat and when he got back to the pen the cat had carried the hog up a tree and eaten it.

Dr. Herschel Crawford, never to be outdone, tells of a mountaineer who came to town the day after he killed his big hog, and asked one of the wisecrackers guess how much the hog weighed.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

THEY'LL HATE THEMSELVES In at least one respect, what is happening in Germany may be for the best. There are decent people in Germany. Some of them already are sick of the German brutality. After this thing goes on long enough, there will be more people sick of it and there will be less and less affection for the type of government that rules

The German government has all the ideals of a hoodlum and it teaches hoodlumism. I saw the hoodlums at work and cheering. When they took over Austria I recall one very fat hoodlum who cheered until he had froth in the corners of his mouth and a madness in his eyes. The Fuehrer was about to come by and I tried to sneak up a camera and take a picture. "Das Ist Verboten," he screamed. "Nicht Verstene Deutch" I said very pleasantly, but he kept on screaming and others began to look and a plain clothes officer took me aside and politely explained no one could point cameras. They get awfully worked up and pretty soon, they get more and more brutal they will begin to hate even themselves. A person can't go on kidding himself all his life. By now, I imagine, even some of the good Nazis must wonder to themselves, when all the lights are out and they are in bed, if some of the stuff isn't the bunk. The trouble with dictators is they can't turn back. But, even so, I guess Abe Lincoln was right when he said you could fool some of the people all the time and part of the people some of the time but you couldn't fool all of them all the time. Maybe there is a certain justice in what is happening in

IT'S DIFFICULT TO BELIEVE Just as there are people who refuse to believe there are people starving in Fulton county and Atlanta, so there are people who refuse to believe the Nazis are as bad as they read. am telling you, you can see it and then not be able to believe all of it. I stood there in Vienna on the afternoon of April 9 and watched the children and young people go by in demonstrations. It scared me for a while because there they were shouting terrible slogans and singing songs about the beauties of steel and iron and putting curses on the enemies of the Reich. Their faces were distorted and they went marching along in the cold and drizzle with a lot of enthusiasm for this government which gave them so little and took so much. But then, it is easy to do anything when you have a mass psychology. You wouldn't believe there was a place to worship Hitler. There was. It was a bust on a pedestal and there were two soldiers on guard and people tossed small bouquets at the base of the pedestal and saluted the bust of Hitler and many of them bowed. It's a little difficult to believe they had up banners reading, "There is no salvation save through the Fuehrer."

There are things difficult to believe. CONTROLLING THE MIND I remember a soldier who was in the third-class compartment coming out of Austria in mid-April. He had yellow hair and a pleasant face. He was friendly. We sang songs, the others joining in, and they thought it was wonderful because I remembered "Du, Du, Liegst Mir im Hertzen" and could sing it with them.

Later on we tried to sleep and dozed, our heads together, this German soldier and I. He was all right. That is, he was until you got him started on government and "Der Fuehrer." His mind was so stuffed with lies and propaganda, all of which he believed, that you felt a little sorry for him. He believed things a child wouldn't believe in America. I just listened, nodding my head as he prattled on. It was like listening to a child. And all the while I was thinking to myself, "How is it possible to make people believe such things?" He got off at Frankfort and I got off and met his wife. She was pretty and very much in love with him. They stood there and waved until the train was out of the station. You must multiply him by many, many millions. You must know that in Germany one may not buy foreign newspapers which contain anything critical of the German government. You must know what happened to books, to magazines and to the radio, which is government owned and speaks only the voice of the government. You must know the newspapers are censored. Then you may understand why an adult will believe fantastic propaganda and what, to anyone else, is lies. The Germans control not only the food, the people, the children, the organizations, but the mind.

MR. ROOSEVELT IS RIGHT I think Mr. Roosevelt is entirely correct when he plans to build a navy and an army which will be greater than the combined arms of the dictators. If you wish to know why Germany is so angry at the United States, you have the answer in the trade treaty with England, the armament plans of America and the fact a drive is being made to hold the friendship of the South American

The Germans do not like that. They can understand force and they don't like our armaments. Mussolini doesn't like it either. They want us to keep out because they hope to dominate Europe and then turn to us. If we are strong they may not dominate Eu-

They have the bodies of fish but the spirit of wolves. Their undershot jaws, armed with razor-sharp teeth, snap through the tough hide of an alligator. They are seldom more than 10 inches in length, but they attack in schools and any animal they choose for prev is doomed.

How does any other creature survive? The only apparent explanation is that these merciless little monsters seem to ignore animals that are sound and whole. It is blood that maddens them. If a wounded animal enters the river, the water boils with the fury of their attack. In a few moments they have stripped it to This preference for wounded prey is not limited to the wolflike fish of the Amazon. A year or so ago, two gentlemen who found their chief joy in fishing stood on a high platform in Florida and watched big fish swimming lazily in the clear water far below. The fish were swimming deep, ignoring a school of smaller fish that moved above them-as they had previously ingored all kinds of bait.

But as the two men watched and wondered, a third kind of fish darted into the school of little fellows and pursued them as they flashed away, leaving the surface momentarily empty except for one small injured fish that appeared helpless.

It was seen by the big fellows down below, and instantly their lazy indifference vanished. Several of them came up with a rush and the cripple vanished. Incidentally, one of the men made an artificial bait that acts like a crippled minnow, and it works when nothing else will. If you have ever tried to raise chickens, you know that towls behave like fish. Even baby chicks, seeing a drop of blood on one

If one shows weakness, others bully him; if he apologizes, he is cursed the more; if he runs from attack, all the world gives chase. The persecuted everywhere are those guilty of being weak. The one way to save our brothers from the crime of tyranny

Some of the highly objectionable cursing is eliminated. One or two of the objectionable scenes that have been intriguing New York so long are calmed down. These are the more sensual scenes that prove nothing but put a vulgar glamour to such plays. So far as we could see there is nothing to be con-cerned about 'Tobacco Road' being so convincing of anything. It need not startle a single decent southern man or woman that any audience anywhere would believe that such a condition as is por-trayed in "Tobacco Road" is a or actor to clothe any fact in vulcandid, true, accurate delineation garity and indecency of life among us. The thing is too

TOBACCO ROAD CENSORSHIP. | preposterous for any sane person to believe. . . . There is not one single redeeming feature in the play that elevates one at any single moment. The only thing that we could find which was a respite was death. There is plenty of ignorance portrayed. There is humor, always of a vulgar kind. There is idiocy and pitiful physical distortion along with it. There is poverty, such erty and such pure filth that even water is contaminated. And yet the play is attracting people as no play has done in a dozen years. We think it is Jeeter Lester who has done this. He is unique among characters that have been born for the stage.'

Which indicates that there was censorship at Savannah, but after the censorship the dramatic critic fails to find "one single redeeming feature in the play that elevates one at any single moment." This statement of the Savannah news-paper writer confirms my opinion that our board of censors should review the play, and, if they decide to allow it to appear, should eliminate as much of the filth as their trusted judgment indicates.

I regret the necessity of censorship, but when a group of people, including an author, a dramatist, a cast of actors, and a theater management, attempt to thrust a play upon this community for the sake of adding to their fortune, I believe we have the right and the responsibility of saying how much vulgarity we will approve.

Mr. Caldwell and Mr. Kirkland may have donated some of their fortune from "Tobacco Road" to the alleviation of the conditions which they exploit, but I have not heard of it. There are those of us who love Georgia and Georgiansall of them-and who gladly give of our substance and time to honestly and intelligently meet and deal with these conditions. but we do not seek to further degrade the "Lesters" or defame the teachers and doctors and preachers and neighbors who are giving their time and money, their prayers and hopes, to the better, fairer day which we earnestly believe awaits the children of another generation.

The Nation's No. 1 Economic Hope!

PRESIDENT BEGINS ECONOMIC HOPE No. 1

The Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Railway has been privileged to serve the South for over ninety years - the South which, favored as it is by Nature, still counts as its greatest asset its own people.

Emerging from the ravages of the Civil War, with its manpower sacrificed on the altar of local self government, without credit, without the ordinary necessaries of life, the South was then confronted with an emergency greater by far than that now or recently obtaining. The southern people were too proud to beg - too courageous to quit - so they went to work. With infinite personal sacrifice, with the same sublime courage which nerved their husbands and sons, under the immortal Pickett, to storm the heights of Cemetery Ridge, they started on the long, hard road to economic rehabilitation. History records their travail, but it also records their success. Prosperity followed hard and intelligent labor - as it always does - but above all the South maintained its self respect and its independence.

Through these dark years the NC&StL did its full part - today it is doing the same thing.

Again NC&StL whistles are blowing and more men by the hundreds are going back to work to make the NC&StL a better servant of its own people. By hard work, study, fidelity to real democratic principles, cooperation, and patience, the South can and will lead the Nation to greater prosperity and happiness.

The NC&StL salutes the South-

Bishop Watkins assumed some plants are not planted of God, yet asserted God's sovereignty manifested in that God overrules for man's good. He thought progress is achieved only as men fight and win. He further assumed this to be an unfinished world, and that God would use men in bringing about its completion and bringing in the Kingdom.

Studyng the elemental traits of Jesus' optimism, Bishop Watkins referred to the proper evaluation of human nature, and spoke of Jesus' optimism being what it was because of what He believed about God. He argued that Jesus had fullest confidence in truth, which, being proclaimed, will eventually

CITY ACTS TO ABATE LOCOMOTIVES' SMOKE

Letters requesting officials of rincipal rairoads operating in Atlanta to attend a conference on the smoke situation in the downtown district will be sent today by A. W. Jones, Atlanta smoke inspector, he announced yesterday.

Mr. Jones said he will urge the officials to use coke in the operation of engines in the downtown district and thereby greatly reduce the volume of smoke. Date of the conference will be set for the convenience of the officials, he said.

Low Stakes

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Perhaps it is due to persistent rumors emitting from Washing-ton that the government is likely to hedge on it's cotton prices in order to raise the ante on wheat and corn, that is causing bridge players in many southern localities to adopt a new pay-off system in their games played for stakes. In some quarters bridge at so-much-a-point has been abandoned for pari mutuel stake games.
MODERATE STAKES.

The beauty of pari mutuel bridge, is, you play for moderately low stakes. No one loses a great deal, chiefly because the maximum possible loss is agreed upon before the game starts, gen-erally twenty-five or fifty cents apiece for an entire session

We first encountered the system down at Myrtle Beach, South Car-olina where folks grow tobacco along the banks of the Pee-Dee river . . . learn to dance the big and little apple . . and peel the peach. Later on, in Asheville, N. C., nearly everyone was playing pari mutuel and the idea had started drifting across the Great Smokies headed for Knoxville, Nashville, Atlanta, Memphis and all points west.

The plan is simple and invites your thoughful consideration.
PLAYERS PIVOT.

Four players, at the start of a session of rubber bridge, each ante twenty-five cents. Players picot following each rubber, winners the individual player having the highest aggregate total wins the balance-remaining in the pot . usually fifty or sixty cents. A player to lose his original ante must lose every rubber he plays.

HIGH SCORE WINS. When players ante fifty cents apiece, winners of each rubber draw ten cents apiece from the purse and the final pot is generally slightly more than a dollar. When two or more tables participate in the pari mutuel, single rubbers are played, players pivoting and changing tables so as not to play with the same partner

High score of all tables wins the final purse.

If you play for moderate stakes, try pari mutuel. You may like it.

A Pari Mutual Wife Wonders Whether She Her Husband Is Play Involves Is Too Good To Husband

By Caroline Chatfield.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD: I wonder if there is such a thing as being too good to a man? My husband loves me and the child-ren and he loves his home. However, his general attitude is tak-ing something out of me. He's one of those men who looks on his wife as mother, housekeper and cook. It doesn't seem to enter his head that a woman wants to be mate and companion as well as homemaker. Gradually without my realizing it was happening, 1 have been pushed into the background and since we do not live on a budget, as we should, this means I am not consulted about any of the buying for the family. have lately been nagging but it has done no good and thought

ANXIOUS WIFE.

There's a better plan, dear lady, if you have the imagination to see yourself coming out of the background and stepping up to show your husband that you have what it takes to be a good companion. There's a workable plan if you have the energy and the spirit and the patience to follow it through.

Of course you know that criticism, complaints and nagging are evidences that you are whipped and are sore about it which is the last admission you should make to the autocratic husband who holds drawing five cents apiece from the the whip. Furthermore if there's one thing above another that irritates a man it's a whining woman who's forever talking about what a good wife she has been and what raw deal she's had. He has the impulse to give her the extra kick she invites and husbands usually obey their impulses toward their

If occasionally he was stub-born and tried to put it over you, you pouted, maybe shed a few tears, but quickly kissed and made up and renewed the game. What you have done once you can do again, if you will recap-ture the old attitude: play up to the husband and show him that in addition to being mother, housekeeper and cook you can be a good companion. My Day: Visit of King and Queen relatives now. Our great worry is that my husband may have a wreck, driving while under the influence. He always wants our fluence. He always wants our fluence with him.

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON-West Chester (Pennsylvania) State Teachers' College, which I visited yesterday, is an interesting institution. The whole place was agog over the celebration for one of their graduates, Mr. Mark Sullivan. He had been there the day before to celebrate, in the community in which he had graduated from college, and first become a reporter, his fiftieth year of newspaper work. It must have been a great day for all the young people, but for those who work on the college paper and who interviewed me, it evidently held a special significance.

I had a delightful time at dinner with Dr. Green, who is now head master of a school in New Jersey, but who had taught for 30 years in this college. His associations were evidently with my own side of the Roosevelt family, and he knows most of the Theodore Roosevelts and the Nicholas Longworths.

The president of the college, Dr. Swope, and his wife were delightful hosts. They have a young son of whom I am sure they are proud, for he had as pleasant a way of making us feel welcome as had his parents. He was still awake when I came back to change my dress, before driving to Philadelphia to take the night train to Washington. He lay in bed watching me sign his own autograph book and one belonging to a friend. I only hope that after all the excitement was over he was able to go to sleep, for I imagine that school had to be attended

Arrived at the White House, I breakfasted in relays. First of all, one cup of coffee with my little friend, Mayris Chaney, who had to be out early to go to a rehearsal, then a second cup with the Premier of Canada, Mr. MacKenzie King; Mr. Harry and our son, James. The latter has started back for the west coast, and I hope that when he arrives there Saturday morning, he will find himself none the worse for his little jaunt across the conti-

Then came a long session with Mrs. Helm, who had saved up innumerable little slips of paper with questions on them, for my return. I shudder to think of what would happen to the social program if she were not on the job. I simply would never remember all the little details that go with a smooth-running official enter-

After Mrs. Helm, the housekeeper, then a press conference at which I detected an increasing interest in the visit of the King and Queen of England. Finally, a number of friends lunched with me, some of whom I had not seen for a long time, and it certainly was warming to the heart to glimpse people for whom I have a

After that I went to spend some time with the state WPA directors of adult education and recreation. I told them that I felt they were doing an exceptionally interesting and valuable piece of work, and that I also recognized the fact, that it was an extremely difficult program to carry out with a staff which cannot be chosen entirely for its professional qualifications. It was most interesting to hear their comments on the situations, in various parts of our country.

Alcoholism Victim

By Dr. William Brady.

From here to the initials in paenthesis this is a letter from

My husband is a victim of al-coholism. I wrote to you two years ago and you recommended Dr. Lambert's method of treatment. My husband kept saying that he could give up the liquor habit without the treatment, but the last nine months he has gotten worse than ever.

He goes a week or ten days without it and then he goes on a three or four day spell. He drinks on the job, and consequently lost a very good job. That has only made him worse. August 15 he decided to take your treatment (meaning the Lambert treatment). He entered the hospital at, we lived near there until recently. He was under a good physician who started the treatment at once. My hus-band reacted to the medicine in 2 1-2 days. The doctor was astonished that he reacted so quickly, but did not explain to us what that meant. He merely stopped the medicine, kept him four then told him he could go.

A week after he came home my husband did some hard work, still felt a little weak from the medicine, so he turned to alcohol to pep him up. Once he got started he kept on as usual. Next day when I spoke to him about it, he said he had intended not to take the first drink, but claimed he only craves it after he has had several However, he seems to get the craving regularly, and then he blames me for all the little things I've donne or failed to do-he gives these as the season.

When he reacted to that medimaking up his mind to leave al-cohol alone?

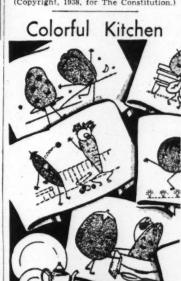

In the hospital he kept asking the doctor if he didn't think a change in environment would help him. Well, four weeks ago we moved to another state, and two days after we arrived there my husband came home with some thing to drink, and has been at it young son to ride with him.

I can't see any future-would you turn such a person out into the world?

(Mrs. M.E.J.) Yes, such a person should be urned out into the world if the nnocent victims, his family and relatives, are unable to obtain from a court of record an order ommitting him to an institution for treatment.

Members Fashion Novel Array Of Artistic Articles for Sale ToWedMr. Harrison

By Sally Forth.

F YOU doubt the resourcefulness, artistic ability and determination A of Atlanta women, the Christmas fair planned by members of St. Michael's Chapter of the Parish Council of St. Philip's Cathedral will change your mind. The fair is scheduled for Friday, December 2, at the chapter house, and you should see the beautiful and novel array of ingeniously designed articles the members have prepared for sale. NATIONAL CAGE TOURNEY IS SET

Meet To Draw Independent, Amateur Teams From All Sections.

Basketball on a national scale will come to Atlanta in a tournament scheduled at the city auditorium February 27 through March 3, it was announced here yesterday by the American Basketball Association, Inc.

The tournament is for independent and amateur teams in all Warren arena. sections of the United States. The tournament officials plan to keep down the field to 16 teams for the first year. The national tournament re-places the southern invitational tournament which was conducted here so successfully for the past four years. Under the plans of the pointed to conduct a tournament and send their winners to the United States finals in Atlanta.

MILEAGE ALLOWANCE.

All teams entering either state or national tournaments will receive a mileage allowance. In the state tournaments the clubs finishing 1-2-3-4 will share in the gate receipts. Trophies will be awarded to state winners. Gold basketballs and team trophies will be given winners in the national meet. ONLY WINNERS.

Only winners of the state championships will be eligible to compete in the nationals here. Southern Bleachery quintet, of Taylors, S. C., winners of the southern tourney last year, and Carter's Shoe team, of Nashville, Tenn., runner-up, will be invited back without having to wade through state competition. The national office will issue invitations to the winner and runner-up to return the following year in all of the future tournaments.

Representatives in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, New York, Kentucky, Florida, Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota and Iowa have promised to have representatives here for the national program.

Atlanta has not witnessed basketball on a national tournament plan for more than 15 years.

Teams in the national tourna-ment here will split 50 per cent of the entire gate receip their expenses. For additional in-formation on the tournament teams you are asked to write the American Basketball Association, Inc., P. O. Box 551, Atlanta, Ga.

The Duke team, still unscored on, plays Mighty Pittsburgh-a game that could put Duke in the Rose Bowl or behind the eight ball.

Duke would get the invitation promptly if the Blue Devils defeated Pitt. And they would accept as promptly. Wallace Wade has been en route to the Rose Bowl before. They had won nine straight one year and came to Grant field to play Tech. The Golden Jackets won, 6 to 0. Freddy Crawford was offside. And I imagine canny Wallace Wade will be offside if Duke doesn't win Saturday. He has carefully planned for this moment since the season opened. He withheld most of his stars against North Carolina State Saturday. He allowed the big gun,

Eric Tipton, to play just long enough to score a touchdown. Then the Duke reserves held State—scoreless. Eight straight games, most of them in good competition, have been completed and not a team yet has crossed the Duke goal. It doesn't seem possible they can keep that record intact Saturday, but stranger things have happened

Pitt scored 10 points on Duke last year while Duke scored As said, a Duke victory will bring the Rose Bowl bid pronto.

And Duke will accept-muy pronto. But they've got to get by Pittsburgh first and certainly that is no coach's dream game in playing for something so important

AND WHAT OF TENNESSEE?

Tennessee still will have Old Miss to play on December 3. And I am afraid that even if Duke should lose, the Rose Bowl committee might look to the southwest and take Texas Christian University if the Horned Toads bump off S. M. U. Saturday. They usually pick the coast team and the eastern or southern invader after the last game in November. And it looks very much like Duke or Texas Christian University. Duke will get it if they win Saturday. If Duke loses and Texas Christian University wins, then Sammy O'Brien and Company from the southwest will get the bid.

It looks very much as if Tennessee will have to be content with the Sugar Bowl unless, of course, both Duke and Texas Christian University lose. In that event, the Rose Bowl committee probably would wait until after the Tennessee-Ole Miss game to extend a bid.

THE SOUTH AGAIN.

It is getting to be a habit for southern teams to play in the Rose Bowl. The Big Ten doesn't accept bids and Notre Dame does not choose to play this year.

Anyway, Notre Dame has a December engagement with Southern California at Los Angeles. And it will be rather strange if Southern California is named as the Rose Bowl team before that game.

For it probably would mean that a thrice beaten team will represent the coast in the Tourney of Roses Classic. That's on his record, Brown is confident the hitch. The coast committee is afraid of that. And so, for that reason, California, beaten by Southern California but vic- rankings are made public. torious in all other games, may get the bid instead and play in the bowl two years in a row.

It would knock Georgia Tech out of a post-season game with California again, but next year is the best year to visit Berkeley and San Francisco anyway. The Golden Gate Exposition will be on then.

The bowl developments are going to be interesting to watch. And it is very possible that the Sugar Bowl game at New Or-best of them, including Solly bear will have as much hearing on a national championship Krieger, new middleweight championship Conneghey, E. Anyone would be foolish to say how the game will work It never has run true to form so far as I know. Georgia Tech has been able to score on all foes except Duke and Florida. The latter game was a mud battle.

Ben Brown Is Seeking High Rating

Atlantan Out To Finish Tommy Beck Here Wednesday Night.

Benjamin Brown has high hopes of being high up on the list when the National Boxing Association releases its 1939 rankings. The Atlanta middleweight was sixth in the world on the 1937 list, but was left out of the first 10 in 1938.

Brown suspects that what caused him to be dropped from the select list were defeats by Ralph Chong and Gus Lesnevich at Miami. In a later fight, Brown eat Chong into submission in six rounds, while Lesnevich, who now is ranked as No. 3 light-heavyweight in the world, is out of the country. In addition to his smashing victory over Chong, Ben also knocked out such nationally known fighters as Babe Risko, Tony Celli and Tony Fisher. And last week at Miami he decisively defeated the cagey Bob Turner. Since a fighter is ranked strictly he'll regain his old place, and gain a notch or two, when the next

A win over Tommy Beck at Warren arena Wednesday night wouldn't do Ben's chances any harm, particularly since Beck, the Baltimore boy, holds a win over Brown. Ben has never lost a return bout and he hopes to keep his record intact. Beck is a clever, ion, and Walter Woods. He has heaten, besides Brown, Bob Turner, Joe Dundee, Manuel Quin-tero and Jimmy Jones.

Kidd Hatcher, Lake City (S. C.) lightweight, and Grady Gentry, of Chattanooga, will fight the eight-round semi-final. Other good bouts are being arranged.

ociated Press Sports Writer. In the late summer months the University of Florida 'Gators were ranked in the Southeastern conference as a team that would show more improvement over 1937 campaigning than all the rest.

Injuries to "key" players beset Josh Cody and his squad at the outset of the 1938 program, with Florida dropping three of its first four games and destined for only a mediocre season. The record created criticism. Although deep down in the standings of the titular race, Florida has staged a "comeback," the latest feat being a well-earned scoreless tie against a favored Georgia Tech team that followed by a week a one-sided verdict over Maryland. The upward climb of the 'Gators has featured the closing stretch of the campaigning, which has seen Tennessee's Volunteers, rated no higher than fourth in the pre-season roundups, roll along un-defeated and untied over the conference's toughest opposition.

Alabamans winning, 23 to 14. Sewanee's Tigers closed their season in New Orleans, dropping their sixth straight conference game to a potent Tulane Green Wave, 0-38. By that victory, Tulane advanced into a tie for second place in the standings with the idle Alabama Crimson Tide, which awaits its closing contest on next Thursday with Vanderbilt at Birmingham.

"Bud Walton's fine kicking and the play of our line was a great help to us," said Cody of his team's tie with Georgia Tech. "I realized after the game just how great a help Walton would have been to us all season. We built our attack around him and then lost him for the first part of the WALTON DID IT.

Five Sectional Races Decided; Michigan Win Helps Gophers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(P)— With five major championship issues settled and three others brought nearer to conclusion, the 1938 college football campaign to-day headed into its final week of general nation-wide competition— a week which will find such Thanksgiving Day fixtures as Tennessee - Kentucky, Alabama-Vanderbilt and Pennsylvania-Cor-nell sharing the headlines with a Saturday card topped by the annual Army-Navy service duel and Minnesota, ruining Wisconsin's hopes for its first Big Ten title since 1912 for the second time in 10 years, won all the way. FINE RECORD.

Meanwhile, Michigan, complet-ing its first season under Fritz Crisler with six victories, a 1-point defeat by Minnesota and a tie, cleared the Gophers' way to exclusive occupancy of the conference throne by handing Ohio State its most thorough defeat in the five years Coach Francis Schmidt has presided at Colum-bus. With Sophomore Tom Har-mon the offensive star and behind line that only once permitted the Buckeyes to penetrate to the 20-yard line, the Wolverines effectively ended a jinx that had seen them shut out for the last four years of this rivalry.

But if Minnesota and Utah found their climax games unex-pectedly easy, the three other championship winners traveled a rockier road. Yale, which played eleven men without a substitution for almost three periods, finally was worn down by one brilliant 80-yard Harvard march; Duke, with Eric (The Red) Tipton rush-ing for 33 yards and passing for the other 13 in its 46-yard touch-down drive, had to call out its line regulars to stop N. C. State for no gain twice, first on the 7 and again on the 20, and Oklashowing unexpected skill that skill to subdue an Iowa State team whose line played the vaunted Sooner forwards to a stand-

The Irish, in gaining eighth straight victory over typically tough Northwestern by 9-7, uncovered a new backfield star in Willard Hofer, 22-year-old second-stringer who accounted for all 9 points with a 65-yard runback of an intercepted pass and a 30-yard field goal. But Troll was not dead. In the morning Spike found him, bruised and dazed, squatting in the village street, staring at the ground. Much to Spike's disgust, the fellow seemed not even badly injured. Troll looked up as the other approached. "What happened?" he asked.

Spike looked at him with suspicion, then be-wilderment. "A truck hit you," he said. "A truck?" Troll repeated blankly, "I never even seen it." Now Gonfala came toward them, pleased to see that Troll was alive, so she would not be left alone with Spike.

Troll glanced up at her. "Who's the dame?" Spike looked at Gonfala and tapped his head. "Balmy. Absolutely balmy!" he whispered in awe. The girl gasped. What a blow fate had dealt-one of her captor-companions a ruthless villain, the other a madman!

BASKETBALL The City Basketball league will suspend operations for this week on account of Thanksgiving coming their playing day. The schedule will be resumed on Thursday, December 1. The Fayette-ville team, however, will play their game with the Nine Old Men on Tuesday at Fayetteville, leaving just three games to be played in Atlanta.

Hass & Dodd, Parks-Chambers, Rybert and the Old Men all got off to a good start in the first series with victories, but it is hard to tell yet just which is the best. The Haas team won a title last year, and they have almost the same team again this time, so it would be surprising if they repeated. The Nine Old Men, at least two of whom are somewhat bald, will be dangerous to anyone's championship hopes if they can just reduce about 20 pounds each and get in good condition. They were all stars in their day.

All three of the games scheduled next promise to be close ones.

Southern Business University and Genuine Parts will tie up in one of the big games of the first half of the Atlanta league Wednesday night at the Y. M. C. A. Both won last week's contests by comfortable scores and this game will prove a real test of their strength. The winner will really have the downhill drag in the contest for the title. Their game is at 9 o'clock. Two Greek teams will clash in the opener when the Sons of Pericles meet the Ahepa team. The odds are in favor of the senior Ahepa boys, but one never can tell. Two Y. M. C. A. teams will clash in the second game, the Dormitory boys playing the Reds.

CITY, STATE BARS WILL AID CITIZENS WITH 'VIGILANTES

Committees Will Be Formed To Safeguard Freedom and Rights Guaranteed by Constitution.

The Atlanta and Georgia Bar Associations will co-operate with the American Bar Association's recommendation to local and state bar associations to appoint their own committees to safeguard constitutional rights, it was disclosed

John T. Dennis, president of the 'Atlanta Bar Association, said the new plan, outlined by the American Bar Association's special bill of rights committee, is "something we need and something we should certainly try to do."

Too Unweildy.

The American Bar Association's special bill of rights committee met last week in New York and reported that appointment of their own committees by local and state bar associations was an action "taken in view of the clearly apparent fact that a national com-mittee, even if it were desirable, would find it impossible to investigate and deal with the large num of alleged violations of constitutional rights that would be brought to its attention."

this connection, Dennis said: "There is no particular thing in this city at present which demands such attention, but such things are happening all over the country from time to time and it is well to be prepared to perform such needful service when and if

The special committee outlined four major purposes and func-tions for the state and local committees, as follows:

"1. To take cognizance of any meritorious claim of a violation in the state or city of the state constitution and of the federal constitution in respect of basic rights such as freedom of the press, speech, assembly and peti-tion or unreasonable searches and

"2. To protest in the name of the bar against important and clear violations of constitutional rights in the state or city, whether by legislative or administrative tion or otherwise.

"3. To be in a position to join

To Form Baldheaded Club

One of the big features of the conference next year will be the organizing of a Baldheaded Club. So very, very many of the preachers are afflicted with that dreaded disease, alopecia, that they are planning to segregate themselves into an exclusive club, and admit to membership only those parsons who are destitute of adornment. Politics in the contemplated club is already showing its head, as there are three run-ning for the presidency, namely, Dr. W. P. King, Dr. W. G. Henry and the Rev. W. T. Hamby. Bishop J. L. Decell is to be elected to honorary life membership, and given a gold certificate. Any one of the three presidential candidates fully qualifies for the high position to which he aspires, as may be observed by a casual glance, and each one doubtlessly measures up fully to the requirement of incurableness.

"Gone With the Wind."

The Methodists hosts that have thronged Atlanta's streets the past five days are not to be seen to-Late last night those living within 50 miles of Atlanta stepped on the gas and headed for home, sweet home. Those forced to remain overnight, early this morning began their trek home-ward also. Many of them will go to new homes, but all of them will Kansas City, chairman of the be back again next fall. May they each one have a year of pleasant environments, joyful labors, spiritual victories, and be preserved in health. Truly they may be gone with the wind, but, unlike the wind, they can be seen as they go.

Child Care vs. Criminals.

In a thrilling story of the work done at the Methodist Children's at Decatur, Superintendent Fred L. Glisson stated that it costs the government $2.47 a day to maintain a criminal, while at the home nearly 150 children and workers are maintained for $100

EVIL IS UNREAL, SPEAKER DECLARES

California Delivers Lecture Here.

Christian Science shows "clearly the allness of good and the un-reality of evil," Charles V. Winn, of Pasadena, said here yesterday in a lecture at the Second Church of Christ, Scientist.

The human mind has accepted the false belief in the reality of evil for so long that it is reluctant to acknowledge the great truth of being, the allness of good. It is only when proof displaces doubt and demonstration supersedes mere belief that the human mind forsakes its false basis and rejoices in healing. If a person does not think intelligently about something, he makes mistakes, that is, he gets the wrong answer in place of the right one.

"Evil is only a mistake, a mistaken sense or false concept about correct or overcome a mistake one must know the fact. To become impatient with the one who has made the mistake is never helpful, but to show him lovingly and kindly where he is wrong and to explain graciously to the erring one what is right, is healing and asserted. redemptive. Argument never brings convictions; demonstration is all-conclusive. "The man who has lost his way and who has thereby wasted many valuable hours and traveled many useless miles needs to be shown the right way to reach his destination. To explain to him that he is on the wrong road is helpful, but to show him how to find the right road is best of all. After apt to go back to the wrong road.

"It has unmasked the worldwide anti-God movement," the bishop's letter, made public here, "We are compelled by the very faith that we profess to express our horror at the savagery of modern state terrorism and to vehemently protest against it."

"All honor," the bishop said, "goes to the Jewish people who have known how to protect their own and who have protested so vigorously against persecutions that have been levelled against their race. We Catholics sympahe has arrived at his destination thize with them and with every quickly and safely he is not very persecuted people because we have so often known persecutions ourselves. "What is happening these days brings out the barbarity that for some 20 years and more has been a stain on modern civilization.

"We pray for all persecuted minorities and extend to them the hand of fraternal charity. God grant that this era of terrorism and savagery may soon pass and be replaced by a universal recogman in two affrays over the week- nition of the law of charity that we may love our neighbor as ourselves no matter of what race, or creed they may be."

Toombs Takes $28,000 Fi Fas Off Tax Books

VIDALIA, Ga., Nov. 20.-More than 5,500 tax fi fas, totaling $28,-185,54, which have cluttered the office of Toombs county sheriffs in recent years, have been written off the books as insolvent, worthless and uncollectable.

When county officials learned approximately 12,000 fi fas, extending from 1931 to 1936, had accumulated in the sheriff's office, a special committee was delegated to nvestigate them. The committee Collector J. B. Partin. It has completed its work, made its report, ing are his wife, the former Miss and, guided by the county attorney Minerva Maughon; five daughters, with the sanction of the county commissioners, has eliminated 5,-500 of the old fi fas.

About 750 of the fi fas repreoutside parties for persons not now living in the county, and many other cases were found in which back taxes would be uncollectable because of death, removal of personal property, dupli-cation of returns, and errors. Nearly 800 of the fi fas set aside represented balances due in which the major portion of the taxes had been paid and real estate released to mortgages, and about 2, 000 represented small personal property returns which would cost the county more to collect than could be realized through collec-

It was estimated the county gov ernment has been paying on a per diem basis several hundred dollars annually as an auditing fee to have these fi fas included in its
